

Dublin Insider

Dublin Insider Must Have for the real Dublin Fan Let Marc Frommhold take you by the hand and take you on a trip around the capital of Ireland. With enthusiasm and a warm radiant smile, you can explore life in this vibrant city. Dublin, named in Gaelic Baile Atha Cliath, is a centuries old city which is famous foremost for its dark beer, the Jameson Whiskey and Oscar Wilde. Its a city of millions, full of contrasts; modern buildings next to well-known Georgian houses. Learn from the knowledge of an insider about the best restaurants and shopping, accommodation facilities, the citys history and extensive nightlife. Go exploring in this great city full of energy and impulses by trying guided tours and excursions in the surrounding green lands. Dublin is a city that is worth the journey whatever the season. You will not be disappointed. A third of the population is under 30 years old. You can see the change that the city is going through as on many street corners a new cafe, restaurant or a trendy boutique seems to be opening by these people . Upon entering the Temple Bar Cultural Quarter you will immediately notice the cobblestone streets from an earlier time. You will feel transported back hundreds of years into the past. Part of the road is very narrow and full of history. You can see the Rory Gallagher corner, the famous Irish guitarist and songwriter, or the wall of famous people. Temple Bar is a place that gives the street musicians and party people of Dublin a place to call home. It is worth exploring this city during the day also, not just at night when magical lights come out and you can hear the sound Irish folk songs from every pub. If you would rather relax in the quiet of nature or want to explore culture, Dublin has a lot to offer. One of the largest urban parks in the world, The Phoenix Park features The Dublin Zoo and the residence of the Irish President and U.S. Ambassador . Wonderful extensive walks can be enjoyed alongside sport enthusiasts. This city offers something for every art and nature lover, historian, Globetrotter or simply enthused socialite. You can literally feel the centuries-old history, contrasting the Modern architecture of our time. Founded by the Vikings in the year 841-AD, you can explore the old Viking district around Dublin Castle. Dublin Insider will help you to write your own history of Dublin. Dublin, your city with an incredible variety of possibilities. Be part of it.
