

A Second Book of Booksellers: Conversations with the Antiquarian Book Trade

The last resort of the eccentric, the antiquarian book trade is rich in colourful and entertaining characters. Since 1991, Sheila Markham has been interviewing some of its most influential figures about their life and work in perhaps the most humane, sociable and absorbing branch of commerce to be found anywhere. This is the second collection of interviews to be published following the success of A Book of Booksellers, which appeared in a limited hardback edition in 2004 and was reprinted in paperback in 2007. About the Author Sheila Markham has been in the antiquarian book trade for over thirty years. She is also Librarian of the Travellers Club and Library Scribe at Brookss in London. Her interest in the world of rare books dates from university days when she was Treasurer of the Oxford University Society of Bibliophiles. She is currently working on a sequel to the present work, and a companion volume on contemporary book collectors.
