

Holy Land Travel: Industries and Workplace (Israel Photography Paths Book 3)

An intimate journey across landscapes and people in one of the most fascinating countries in the world. Chanans work combines the professionalism of the working photographer, with the love of the amateur photographer. A rare gift indeed. One cannot fail to see the love and feeling for his subject in his prints. David Rubinger, photojournalist, awarded the 1997 Israel Prize in Communication. The outcome is nothing short of spectacular. In any of his series be it Industry, People at Work, Peoples Various Ways of Living, Landscapes, or Closer to Home, as Chanan Getraide calls it there is no photograph that is not compositionally meticulous and almost obsessively abiding by the rules of aesthetics. Professor Moshe Zukerman, sociologist and a professor at the Cohn Institute of History and the Philosophy of Science and Ideas, Tel Aviv University. In a country haunted by its past and its fear, it is heartwarming and refreshing to be inspired by the joy of Chanans observation and by the rainbow of colors in his work Micha Bar-Am, Photojournalist, awarded the 2000 Israel Prize in Photography. Chanan Getraides intimate knowledge of the land and considerable technical skill at making images cannot account for these visual insights. Rather it is an intuitive understanding that the Israeli landscape is different than other beautiful natural motifs in some fundamental way. Image after image proclaims that the intrusions of cultivation, roads, water works, electrical lines and housing upon an awesome natural landscape actually enhances the Land of Israel, fulfilling its promise as an inheritance to the Jewish People.
