Rimini contains some 18,000 inhabitants, and is situated near the mouth of the River Marcocchia. It is fast becoming a place of importance. In 1671 an earthquake filled up its harbor and destroyed its foreign commerce. It is a very old town, having been taken by Crcsar as early as the year 49 B.C., after his passage of the Rubicon: in the square bearing his name, the stone basement is still to be seen from which ho harangued the Roman army after his entrance into the city. In the year 538 the city was besieged by the Visigoths, but was rescued by Belisarius. It afterward belonged for some time to the Malatesti and the popes. The principal objects of interest are the Porta Romano, formerly Arch of Augustus, built in honor of that emperor by the inhabitants; the churches of San Francesco, San Giuliano, and the Palazzo del Comune, in the last of which is a painting representing the Martyrdom of San (Giuliano by Paul Veronese. An excursion should be made to the ancient republic of San Marino, the smallest in the world, celebrated for having so vigorously defended its liberty when threatened in turn by the popes, the Malatesti, and Napoleon I. It was founded by San Marino in the time of the Christian persecution under Diocletian. From Rimini to Ancona by rail, distance 58 miles. From Rimini to Brindisi by rail, via Ancona, distance 408 miles. Pesaro (hotels Leone dOro and Italia) is a small town of some 15,000 inhabitants, situated near the mouth of the Foglia. It was the birthplace of Pope Innocent XI., of the painter Carilarini, ond of the late lamented Rossini. It received a Roman colony as early as 184 B.C. Long after, it
